EXCITING NEWS!

Triton Diving Services is very excited to welcome Jose Vindeola to its Project Management Team.

Jose began his diving career in the United States Navy as a 2nd Class Diver and Search Air Rescue Swimmer. After receiving an honorable discharge he came to the Gulf of Mexico and worked as a diver, SAT diver, supervisor, and diving superintendent.

Jose worked in various other diving capacities from coast to coast. He has been on every type of barge and has been both a surface and SAT diver. He holds the world record for a surface supplied dive at altitude and designed the dive profile for his record setting dive.

As an Estimator and Project Manager, Jose has worked in both the US and abroad. He's managed every type of diving project imaginable. His experience is unparalleled and is one of the top diving minds in the Gulf of Mexico. Jose's mantra fits perfectly with Triton. It simply states, "I am here to contribute to SAFE operations and an EFFICIENT bottom line, period."

SGA 2011 - Improving and Learning

On June 8-10 Triton Employees attended and presented a booth at the SGA Offshore Gas Operations Conference and Exhibit at The Hotel Monteleone in New Orleans, LA. Once again Triton displayed leadership and experience within the oil and gas industry while also learning from prominent keynote speakers. Matt Blalock (Account Manager) said, "The recent SGA conference in New Orleans was a great opportunity for Triton Diving to meet with our gas transmission pipeline customers in a face to face forum. We learned how the ever increasing demand of natural gas will play an important role in the energy market. Also, the break out sessions were aimed at addressing concerns and solutions from both an operator and diving contractor point of view." Triton looks forward to participating again next year.
